A legitimate interest is when we have a business or commercial reason to use your information, so long as this is not overridden by your own rights and interests.

The table in Section 2 above explains what we use (process) your personal information for and our reasons for doing so.

The above table does not apply to special category personal information, which we will only process if and to the extent permitted by applicable data protection law and – where required – on the basis of your prior and express consent.

We have a legitimate interest in processing your personal information for promotional purposes (see above “How and why we use your personal information”). This means we do not usually need your consent to send you promotional communications. However, where consent is required by applicable law, we will ask for this consent separately and clearly.

We will always treat your personal information with the utmost respect and never sell or share it with other organizations outside the Accuride Group for marketing purposes.

You have the right to opt out of or, as applicable, withdraw your consent to receiving promotional communications at any time by:

If a transfer to a non-EEA member state is provided for and no adequacy decision by the European Commission or suitable safeguards are in place, it is possible and there is a risk that authorities in the respective third country (e.g. intelligence services) may gain access to the transferred data in order to collect and analyze it, and that the enforceability of your data subject rights cannot be guaranteed.
