

Ocean Containers

Ocean containers are packed tightly to ensure the goods do not move during ocean transit and to maximize value in shipping expense. Due to this, unloading shipping containers can require extra time and care. A loading dock with forklift is recommended. Below you will see the standard loading diagram for a container of 16.5x7 brake drums.

Please contact your district sales manager if you have any questions regarding your upcoming delivery.

